City Animal Shelter:

Each day Animal Care Services picks up homeless, injured, and abused animals throughout the City. After the stray-hold time is up, the animal is either adopted to a new family or must be euthanized to allow for more animals to come in. For every animal that comes in to the facility, one must leave. When space is available, we will accept animals, on a first come – first served basis or by appointment. Please call ahead at (361) 826-2489 or email animalcaredispatch@cctexas.com, to ensure that room exists before coming to the facility. Kennels are open from 1:00pm-5:00pm Monday-Saturday.

Local Rescues:

There are numerous local rescue organizations. This list is not all inclusive but includes organizations that we have worked with. We do not support, promote, solicit, or take liability responsibility for these organizations. They are being provided to you as a resource only.

Online Resources:

There are various options for seeking a new home via internet. These adoption websites allow private rescues and sometimes individuals to list pets for adoption:

Adopt a Pet www.AdoptAPet.com

Craigslist – Community – Pets <http://corpuschristi.craigslist.org/>

Ebay Pets <http://www.ebayclassifieds.com/pets>

South Texas Animal Rescue <https://www.facebook.com/SouthTexasAnimalRescue>

Other Options:

You can make flyers with the animal's photo and description and your contact information as well. Good places to hang these flyers are:

- Veterinary clinics
- Pet Supply Stores
- Local retail and restaurant businesses
- Dog parks (bulletin boards)
- Bulletin boards at your work place

What you can do to combat pet overpopulation:

1. Always spay and neuter your pets.
2. Always adopt your pets from a legitimate shelter or nonprofit rescue group.
3. Consider all the responsibilities and consequences of pet ownership before deciding to get a pet and always make a lifetime commitment to your pet.
4. Educate your children, friends, family members and co-workers about pet overpopulation, adoption and the importance of spaying and neutering.
